Love Ashes Cremation Jewelry to be Featured

New Product to Premiere at ICCFA Expo - Love Ashes memorial pendants are giving people across the country a special way to keep their deceased loved ones close at heart. These one-of-a-kind creations will be featured at the Love Ashes booth at the ICCFA Convention in San Antonio, March 10-13. Launched by artist and owner Silvia Engel on a national level in 2009, Love Ashes cremation jewelry and framed memorials are in high demand. These products are offered at an affordable price point, making them widely available for the public.

"My clients cherish Love Ashes memorials because they are as stunning as the lives they represent," said Engel. "I have been privileged to work with hundreds of clients who have trusted me to create memorials for them and provide them with great comfort during a time of grief."

Funeral Homes Can Become Love Ashes Partners

Engel now offers Love Ashes nationally, allowing funeral homes and crematoriums across the country to offer her products to clients choosing cremation. Funeral homes may associate with Love Ashes as a part of an incentive plan. Partners receive wholesale pricing on all products while becoming an order site. They also receive a partner order kit, Love Ashes catalogs, and order forms to use at their businesses. A second option is simply to display catalogs and refer interested clients to work with Love Ashes directly.

At the ICCFA convention, attendees may visit the Love Ashes booth (#140) to learn more about becoming a partner. Don't miss this booth – the first 25 funeral homes to register as a partner with Love Ashes will receive a free sample with their partner kit, valued at $25. All attendees can experience the unique Love Ashes display and see firsthand the care that is put into each hand-made piece. Artist and owner Silvia Engel will be on hand to answer questions. Register as a partner and receive a partner kit to make working with Love Ashes straight forward and rewarding.
